Support for families with children from zero to three years of age

Support for families with children from zero to three years of age. The birth of a child entails many changes. What do you as a parent have to consider with respect to development, care and nutrition? Right at the very beginning this is essential in order to give your child the best possible start in life.

How can you recognise the signals your child sends out?

How do you yourself feel as a parent in this new situation?

The programme EARLY HELP is specialised to answer all your ante- and postnatal questions, and in the first three years of your child.

Baby clubs and parent courses

Baby clubs

If you are interested in suggestions for games and want to foster the development of your baby, you can exchange comments and ideas with other parents in a calm and relaxed atmosphere.

The Baby Clubs offer you the opportunity to discuss with other parents problems, such as sleepless nights and your child's very first radiant smile.

This is an open offer, free of charge, and takes place on a weekly basis. They are managed by experienced leaders and midwives.

Parent course – Understanding your baby

In the Parent Course the focus is on “READING” your child's behaviour. This is where you will get information on the early development and day to day expressions of behaviour.

The personal well-being of the parents in this new situation in life is dealt with by means of playful drills. The Parent Course consists of five two-hour sessions and is managed by experienced course leaders.
